ANGEL CHIMES

SINCE 1948

Original Swedish Design

Angel Chimes, known in Sweden as Änglaspel, are a cherished symbol of Scandinavian holiday tradition. First appearing in Northern Europe in the mid-20th century, these elegant candle-powered chimes quickly became a centerpiece of Christmas tables across Sweden, Germany, and neighboring regions. Driven solely by the gentle heat of candlelight, Angel Chimes rotate without batteries or motors, reflecting a beautifully simple harmony between craftsmanship, physics, and ritual.

As the angels turn, they bring movement, warmth, and light to the table—inviting families to slow down, gather together, and share a quiet moment during the holiday season.

For generations, Angel Chimes have represented more than decoration. They symbolize togetherness, tradition, and the enduring spirit of Scandinavian celebrations, passed down from parents to children as part of the Christmas experience. Today, Angel Chimes proudly continue this heritage, honoring their European roots while sharing the same sense of light, warmth, and tradition with homes around the world.

Sveico, founded in 1914, began producing cheese slicers in the 1930s, long before plastic manufacturing was introduced. The earliest models featured wooden handles. The first cheese slicer itself was invented in 1925 by the Norwegian craftsman Thor Bjørklund. While today's slicers are not made with the original mold, they are still proudly manufactured in Gnosjö, Sweden.

Over 5,000 years ago, long before the first humans reached remote Iceland, a massive volcanic eruption created a unique underground spring, complete with its own natural filtration system—pristine lava rock. Now known as the Ölfus Spring, this is the source of Icelandic Glacial.

Troentorp

CLOGS

Clogs were first made in Troentorp just outside Bastad over a hundred years ago in 1907. The small Swedish clog factory was started by August Johansson who had spent the previous 8 years learning his trade from a local cobbler in the Bastad area. Over the years the production process developed and in 1942 August's sons, Börje and Stig took over the clog factory.

Since 1907 around 15 million pairs of clogs have been made and while many improvements and changes have been made throughout the years we still remain true to the heritage established by August.

Since the initial workshop at the beginning of the 20th century, through the swinging 60s, up until this moment, Troentorp has held on to the unique craftsmanship methods developed over the decades. Our especially developed Original and Ideal soles, lasting technique and nailing process give our footwear its characteristic look and comfort.

The same craftsmanship and passion are still used in each and every pair of clogs that we make today.

Clogs nailed to last!
